

Hi.. just putting my 2cents in here.. I greatly enjoy XM and benefit from it's programming and information. I'm a stormchaser, so the introduction of weather/traffic would be one more tool at my disposal. And when you're out beyond the reach of FM/AM, XM is allways there.

IMO.. i think this is all over $$.. isn't everything? It seems to me, the people who run sat radio are the only ones willing to take chances and improve on how entertainment and information is passed along to people like me, the consumer.

Thank you, Robin